INSTITUTE

The Leapfrog Group's Judie Burrows Education Institute houses Leapfrog's programs educating employers, policymakers, the public, and health care leaders, building momentum for improved safety, quality, and transparency. The Judie Burrows Education Institute is named for the heroine of the HBO documentary Bleed Out. After a routine partial hip replacement operation left the mother of filmmaker and comedian Steve Burrows in a coma with permanent brain damage, what started as a personal video diary became a citizen's investigation into the state of American health care. Judie's tragic story reinforces the urgency of change.
